ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I would like to thank Marlene Lacey for her expert computer work, her astute proofreading and for her artistic taste and understanding in helping me get the book into this eventual form. I would also like to thank editor Harry Vandervlist for his careful reading, questioning and advice, and especially for his good sense in suggesting I exclude, but save for another venue, a certain two appendices. Finally I would like to thank Walter Hildebrandt for soliciting the manuscript, and for his thoughtful responses, faith and encouragement.

The avant-garde and its metaphor[s] ... enemy fire
... friendly fire ... challenge ... endless ... critique ... behind[?] the lines ... theory-wrestling ... doughty bouts ... theory forsaking its dialectical power ... hardening into a science-like, blind praxis ... the elephant/envelope in the room: capitalism's perpetual (so far) revolution ... arising in spurts from its hardened arteries ... in evil genius fits of survival (see film Friends and Crocodiles) ... sucking from behind into its obsolescing, its vacuum (see F&C again for more vacuum [cleaner] irony), the puffing avant-garde ... rendering it ... poor cousin ... impotent imitator ... so poetry re-verses to hobby? ... spare ... time ... f[ol]k art ... fingers in the socket ... shock of the naïve ... return of the kernel ... “extimate” kernel ... what the later Pound, of his thoughts, said he couldn't get to anymore ... and so[w] ... he can fault us.

SOCRATES:

*Then it won't be with serious intent that he writes them in water or that black fluid we call ink, using his pen to sow words that can't either speak in their own defence or present the truth adequately....
He will sow his seed in literary gardens I take it, and write when he does write by way of pastime....*

from Plato's "Phaedrus"
